

Legal Notice & Policy Guide

Software edition | Updated September 26, 2026

The current offering

FarmerMind AI is downloadable agricultural decision-support software for supported Windows and Android devices. Users supply their own compatible devices. FarmerMind is not currently selling the AI Cube. The name "OS" describes an integrated software suite; it does not replace your device's Windows or Android operating system.

Software license and warranty

The Software License Agreement explains installation rights, permitted use, updates, platform differences and software limitations. The Software Warranty Policy explains support, purchase remedies and non-excludable rights. Earlier hardware purchases retain the terms and rights applicable to those transactions. No hardware shipping, repair or replacement is included in a new software download.

Offline use has boundaries

Local records, bundled guidance and cached information can be useful without connectivity. Installation, updates, fresh online information and connected services require a connection. Features differ by release and platform. Android does not include Sensors. Bookkeeping tools do not hold or transfer money. AI outputs, translations and data references can be incomplete or wrong; verify consequential decisions with current local information and qualified advice.

Accounts, privacy and your records

Read the Privacy Policy and feature-specific notices. Website accounts, company applications, uploads, purchases and support involve online processing. Offline functionality is not a promise that every activity stays on-device. Maintain backups where supported. This guide grants no new permission to collect, share, sell or train models on your information.

Company profiles and advertising

The Advertising Disclosure and the terms shown at checkout govern company participation. Application review, membership eligibility, trial activation, website publication and release inside the Windows or Android software are distinct. Company review is not certification of product quality. A listing or membership guarantees no audience, placement, leads or sales. Recorded clicks are not necessarily unique people or purchases.

Legal Notice & Policy Guide

Software edition | Updated September 26, 2026

Purchases and cancellation

Use the terms and support route of the channel where you purchased: the Microsoft Store, Google Play or a direct website checkout, as applicable. Uninstalling does not cancel a subscription. Cancel renewal through the originating channel. Applicable refunds, renewal timing and mandatory consumer rights are not replaced by this guide.

Read the applicable agreement

The Terms of Use contain dispute-resolution provisions, including arbitration, exceptions and an opt-out process. Read the document applicable to your agreement before accepting. This guide does not create a new arbitration agreement, waive a claim, change an opt-out deadline or retroactively replace a prior purchase contract.

How legacy references are treated

Some older policies describe the AI Cube or hardware-specific security and update methods. Those descriptions are not statements that new hardware is included, that your phone uses the Cube's encryption system, or that standalone software must be updated by USB. For standalone software licensing, the Software License Agreement governs conflicting hardware-only license restrictions. Historical hardware obligations and non-excludable rights remain intact.

Intellectual property and external links

FarmerMind and its licensors retain rights in their software and branding. Users retain their rights in their original content. Third-party components and services have their own terms. A link to a company, program, marketplace or outside resource is not a guarantee of availability, eligibility, accuracy or endorsement. Nothing in this guide asserts a patent grant or government endorsement.

About this guide

This is a policy reference guide, not a substitute for the agreements applicable to your software, website account or purchase. It does not expand product capabilities or create a service-level commitment. Updated September 26, 2026; version 5.0.

Contact FarmerMind

FarmerMind AI LLC
13423 Blanco Road #542
San Antonio, TX 78216, United States
info@farmermind.ai | +1 252 465 3013
farmermind.ai