

Legal Notice and Policy Guide

Updated October 3, 2026

The current offering

FarmerMind AI is agricultural decision-support software for supported Windows and Android devices. You supply your own compatible device. The product name OS describes an integrated software suite; it does not replace Windows or Android.

Software license and support

The Software License Agreement explains permitted use, installation, updates and limitations. The Software Warranty Policy explains support and purchase remedies. Earlier purchases retain their applicable express commitments and non-excludable rights.

Local work and connected features

Available local records, bundled guidance and cached information can be used offline. Fresh weather and satellite data, browser links, downloads, updates and website services require connectivity. Features vary by release. Windows Rev474 has no enabled image-diagnosis or crop-photo-contribution service. Android does not include Sensors. Farm Books is bookkeeping and does not hold or transfer money.

Marketplace and public profiles

In the current Windows edition, Marketplace is a directory of reviewed business and farmer profiles supplied with OS updates. Available listings follow the selected country. It does not provide person-to-person chat or transactions. A business link opens its public FarmerMind company page in a browser; visiting the business website is a separate action. Farmer details open locally. Private farm records and local OS profiles are not automatically published.

Approved public information may persist in installed directories until those copies are updated. The Advertising Disclosure explains paid labels, review, membership and reporting. Review is not certification or a guarantee of audience, placement, leads or sales.

Applications, trials and purchases

For the new workflow, a complete approved profile must be included in a published FarmerMind OS release. FarmerMind AI must confirm that publication and manually enter the trial start date on or after publication. The full eligible trial begins on that date: 30 days for a farmer or 90 days for a company. Application, approval and a website update do not start the clock. The start date is not backdated to the application or approval date.

Submitting an application, approving a profile or publishing an OS release does not authorize a charge. A separate checkout must disclose the selected price, currency, taxes, first charge, renewal interval and cancellation terms and obtain billing consent. Checkout must preserve any remaining eligible trial rather than charge immediately or create a second trial. Existing subscriptions retain the terms accepted for those purchases.

Farmer profiles use an annual-only plan at USD $9.99 per year. Company plans are USD $19.99 per month or USD $239.88 per year. These are plan prices before any applicable tax. The price and first charge must be shown before checkout consent. A monthly company plan does not qualify for an annual-plan loyalty discount.

Loyalty and availability

The prospective points program offers daily-visit and qualifying-referral points for annual-plan rewards. The full schedule and safeguards appear in the Advertising Disclosure. Enrollment, rewards and checkout become available only after their required checks. A policy description does not activate a program.

Privacy and your choices

The Privacy Policy explains website records, intentional uploads, local reports, connected requests, public listings, retention and privacy rights. Profile-publication consent is separate from marketing and research consent. Use only the information needed for a support or privacy request.

Applicable agreements and earlier rights

Read the agreement applicable to your transaction before accepting. The Terms of Use retain their existing dispute provisions, exceptions and opt-out process; this guide does not create arbitration, waive claims or change a deadline. The Software License Agreement governs standalone software installation and use. Earlier purchase, warranty, refund and privacy rights remain intact.

Cancellation and help

Cancel recurring billing through the channel where you purchased or the method stated at signup. Uninstalling software does not cancel a subscription. Store and direct-purchase refund terms and mandatory remedies remain applicable. Contact FarmerMind AI LLC, 13423 Blanco Road #542, San Antonio, TX 78216, United States; info@farmermind.ai; +1 252 465 3013.