Terms of Use

Current service and image contribution terms | Updated October 28, 2026

Use FarmerMind responsibly. Keep ownership of your content. Choose separately whether eligible assessment photos may help improve Agris Intelligence.

Optional participation. The planned setting starts On - awaiting agreement. No photo is queued or uploaded for model improvement until you affirmatively choose Agree and contribute. Declining does not remove assessment access.

1. How these terms apply

These terms cover FarmerMind software for supported Windows and Android devices you own or control, farmermind.ai and optional connected services. Availability depends on the installed release. Local records and cached guidance may work offline; fresh online information, browser services and updates need connectivity. A notice alone does not activate a planned service or authorize collection by an older app.

This two-page update must be read with the existing Terms of Use and continuing provisions, originally effective April 30, 2026 and clarified October 3, 2026, together with the applicable Software License Agreement, Privacy Policy, warranty, refund and purchase terms. Those provisions remain effective except for the express contribution updates here. Earlier purchases retain their applicable commitments and accrued rights.

2. Your photo ownership and permission

You retain ownership of your photos and other content. Contribute only images you have the right to share and authorize for the disclosed purpose. Do not include confidential material, identity documents, precise farm location or other people without appropriate permission. Profile-publication consent, a local report export, ordinary assessment use and marketing choices do not grant model-improvement permission.

After affirmative agreement, you permit FarmerMind and its contracted processors to store, copy, prepare, review and use eligible processed assessment photos and the disclosed accompanying information to improve FarmerMind and commercial Agris models. This permission is limited to that purpose and the controls below. It does not transfer ownership, publish the photo, guarantee its use, or permit training third-party foundation models. Contributions do not create a right to payment or ownership in resulting models.

3. Eligible content and review

Eligible information includes the processed submitted photo, selected crop, optional structured symptom answers, unverified model suggestion/version and contribution, app and consent records. Embedded GPS and unnecessary camera metadata are removed; we do not scan your gallery. Authorized reviewers may examine contributions. Model suggestions are not verified disease labels. FarmerMind may reject or quarantine unsuitable content.

4. Turn off or request deletion

Turn the contribution setting off to stop future contributions and cancel pending contribution copies. Original photos and assessment history remain. In-flight uploads may finish and late arrivals are quarantined. Turning off does not automatically delete earlier uploads; use the available deletion controls or contact privacy@farmermind.ai or info@farmermind.ai. Reasonable verification may be needed without unnecessary identity documents.

Unsent copies expire after seven days and unreviewed photos after 90 days. Approved photos and linked derivatives are retained up to two years from receipt, or deleted earlier following a verified request. Cloud recovery may retain deleted bytes for up to seven further days. Affected copies are excluded from future datasets; removal of influence from already-trained models cannot be guaranteed. Necessary minimal consent, security or legal records may remain. Withdrawal does not invalidate earlier lawful processing.

5. Processing and connectivity

Google Firebase/Google Cloud processes contributions for FarmerMind in the United States (us-central1). Device credentials and limited network/security metadata protect uploads; no farmer account signup is required. Wi-Fi/unmetered upload is the default; mobile data requires your choice. Offline contributions use a bounded private queue. Windows retries run while the app is open. The Privacy Policy explains personal information, rights and safeguards.

6. Decision support and software use

Agris outputs may be wrong, incomplete or outdated and do not guarantee yields, diagnosis or treatment outcomes. Verify important treatment, chemical, livestock and investment decisions with qualified local advice; follow applicable labels and rules. Translation coverage and review status vary. Protect your device and credentials, maintain appropriate backups, use authorized release channels, and do not bypass security or licensing controls or submit unlawful or infringing content. Mandatory rights and applicable open-source permissions remain.

7. Purchases and continuing legal provisions

Applications, approval and publication do not authorize billing. Checkout must disclose price, taxes, first charge, renewal and cancellation before acceptance. Existing eligible trials, subscriptions, warranty, refund and earned-reward rights continue under their applicable terms. These contribution terms do not change a liability limit, create a new arbitration agreement or waiver, restart an opt-out period, or reduce mandatory consumer or data-protection rights.

The continuing Terms of Use contain the existing eligibility, permitted-use, account/payment, intellectual-property, warranty/disclaimer, liability, indemnification, termination, Texas-law and dispute provisions, including arbitration exceptions and the 30-day opt-out procedure where validly agreed and applicable. They remain available through this link. Existing notice requirements apply to material amendments; a website update is not photo-contribution consent.
